Hospital of the future – @ digital home? (and then Corona came along……)

International Keynote

Hans Schoo
Member of the Board, Rijnstate Hospital, Netherlands

Rijnstate is a large teaching and top clinical hospital that provides cure in the eastern part of the Netherlands to a population of 500,000 people. In my presentation I will take you (briefly) on our journey to translate our starting direction for the hospital of the future into a digital strategy. What goals have we set? What do we see as risks and what lessons have we learned so far? And then Corona came along…… How did the Netherlands cope with COVID-19 – and especially in my hospital. What have I seen accelerating the digital agenda in my hospital. (dashboard, ...

Canada's First Nations peoples are rooted in resilience.   Infrastructure disparity in rural and remote First Nations communities and household affordability issues have resulted in inequitable access to health services, leaving many Indigenous communities on the wrong side of a significant digital divide. Despite this reality, First Nations continue to demonstrate coordinated, efficient leadership managing healthcare in their communities, in particular when faced with critical health challenges such as COVID-19. In fact, as of September 25th, on reserve COVID infection rates are reported to be four times lower than in the rest of Canada.
